OUR COMMITMENT TO RIGHTS-BASED YOUTH WORK

Our rights-based youth work is firmly rooted in principles of inclusivity, non-discrimination, and deep respect for cultural diversity and heritage. We seek to build sustainable communities that uphold human rights by empowering young people with knowledge of their rights. This is why we are wholly committed to the UNCRC (1989).

WHO WE ARE

A Womanist initiative dedicated to bringing race and faith-sensitive support to women and families of African and multi-cultural heritage in Edinburgh.

WHAT WE DO

We work collaboratively with partners who believe in our mission and those who prioritise diversity, inclusion, and the elimination of racial oppression.

OUR YOUTH WORK

Project Esperanza's Youth Groups offer a bi-weekly space for two age categories: children aged 13 and under, and older girls aged 14 and above.

Catering specifically to black, minority ethnic, and migrant youth, these sessions serve as a nurturing environment for cultural exploration, religious dialogue, idea exchange, creative expression, and activism.

Led by dedicated youth workers, Project Esperanza also offers personalised therapeutic sessions and employability support for young people.

SPECIFIC ACTIVITIES

One-on-one employability support, CV building and mentoring (Every Thursday Afternoon).

Fornightly Group Meetings (Friday 2:00pm-4:00pm).

Exploring culture through foods

Individual Thereapeutic Support
